

Mr. George Jordan, of Oke, met with a painful accident one day last week, by a fall, striking his right leg, breaking a small bone in two places.

Kennebec.

Clark, the horse thief, now in Kennebec, recently connected a very ingenious scheme to break from prison. Like many of the other prisoners he was employed in the jail workshop, pegging shoes. While observed, Clark, with the aid of a screw driver, contrived to remove the screw from the lock on the outside door.

workshop. He then substituted the screws for the iron bolts, so that he could remove the lock's women's nose bolts, which were the only bolts in that manner, procured the key and would unlock the door leading from the corridor in the guard room, where the prisoners were allowed to stay during the night, into the prison proper. The warden Clark could open the doors and escape whenever he pleased. But unfortunately he was about to lose his job, for the horse thief, in passing out of the workshop, took hold of the knob of the outside door, and opened it, and the warden, thinking it expedient, when the lock fell off, thus enabling the thief to escape, was told by the warden that he would be sent to the penitentiary to justice to get free.

Suspect.

Capt. Geo. W. Tucker, of the Mendoza, took a friend in Baltimore, under the name of Geo. W. Tucker, in command of the Mendoza for Buenos Ayres, on Monday. Rumors that have gained currency through the agency of the Portland

DEATH OF HON. MARSHALL JEWELL.

The announcement of the sudden death of Hon. Marshall Jewell, of Connecticut, a victim to the same with scurvy, pneumonia, will carry a thrill of sadness throughout the whole country, where he was so widely known and earnestly esteemed by thousands of warm friends.

He was born in Winchester, New Hampshire, Oct. 20th, 1825; was brought up as a tanner; studied telegraphy and electricity and superintended the construction of lines between St. Louis and New Orleans in 1850.

DEMOCRATIC DELIGHT.

The Commercial does not share the ardor of its admirers for the attitude of Mr. Powers in regard to the Congressional appointment, and its Augustan correspondence on Friday said:

All admit his speech on the appointment bill was the ablest speech made by any one during the session. The fair and the reasons given for his position led an impression on many members who have been opposed to the bill.

In Saturday's Commercial the same Augustan correspondent repeats his praise thus: Mr. Powers made a remarkable impression upon the Republicans by his clear and forcible speech which they listened to with interest.

The light given by his speech was very interesting to the more so that it is a light which the Republicans and countrymen will be glad to see spoken with corroborative words by the Union men have been saying for years.

MR. BLAINE'S HISTORICAL WORK.

Within a few days, Mr. C. C. Haskell, president of the Senate Publishing Company, has completed some long-expected negotiations with Hon. James G. Blaine, for a book which these gentlemen talked up some months ago, and on which the latter has been already doing considerable work.

It is to be published by Mr. Haskell's house, and bears the title "Twenty Years of Congress: from Lincoln to Garfield: 1861-1881."

As may be apprehended from the title and the authorship, it will be the history of national legislation and policy during the civil war and the period of recovery from its immediate effects; will deal with the reconstruction, the tariff, the internal revenue, the currency and banking system, which constituted the government to bear the financial burden of the war, the resumption and refunding, the reconstruction, the tariff, the internal revenue, the currency and banking system, which constituted the government to bear the financial burden of the war.

It is a work which will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States, and will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States, and will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States.

It is a work which will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States, and will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States, and will be of great value to the student of the history of the United States.

WASH. D. C.
WIA STEAMER FOR PORTLAND
 The first steamer from Portland, Me., that has been trading here since the outbreak of the war, is the Washburn, which is expected to arrive here on Monday, Sept. 10, and leave for Portland on Tuesday, Sept. 11. The Washburn is a 1,000-ton steamer, built in 1901, and is owned by the Portland Steamship Co. It is the only steamer of its kind in the city, and is the only one that has been trading here since the outbreak of the war.
